Afraid to do Right.

The California Senate did not promptly pass the patriotic resolutions we quoted a few mornings ago. The San Francisco Morning Call says

There are some tender footed individuals in the Senate who do not like Cambell's patriotic resolutions which passed the Assembly yesterday They do not, they say, object to the sentiment and spirit of the resolutions, but they think there is too much language in them in other words they are too explicit, because they leave no room for dodging so those who wish to keep their sails ready for any wind that may blow, murmur against them they must, however, show their hands now The man who fails to come up to the spirit and letter of those resolutions, will be a dead cock in the political pit before twelve months pass over his timid head A year hence the resolutions will be considered tame, comparatively speaking, now they are not as such, so to speak, in advance of the sentiment of the people, but are rather behind In the Senate, the resolutions were referred to the Committee on Federal Relations, and an attempt will be made to amend them so as to take out the sting How successful it will be remains to be seen If are amended so as in any particular weaken their specific force, the Assembly will not concur in the amendments They were not referred to any Committee in the House, and did not occupy the attention of the Assembly over twenty minutes."

The Marysville Appeal's correspondent writes upon the same subject:

Some are afraid to say they are in favor of Old Abe's plan to reconstruct States by letting only loyal men do the voting and office holding to that end. Others object that the resolutions are too wordy. One of the amendments (?) strikes out the word 'Copperhead,' for fear of hurting the feelings of some conservative chap A few don't care to praise the President or Secretary Chase separately from the Government. Perhaps one or two don't like the resolutions because they didn't write them, Altogether it looks to a man up a tree as if some of the Union Senators had a little dough sticking in their political crops They are as squeamish about it—black is black as any "Constitutional Democrat" dare be Such behavior over such a simple [illegible] is not creditable, and it is certainly not [illegible] usual vo[illegible] of California like to see. They [illegible] are true, hearty, fresh, and [illegible] the author or the particular [illegible] would like to see them pass and go [illegible] the Government in its arduous task of [illegible] and regenerating the Republic. Better too many words, too loosely connected if you will, than such bucking and delay

It seems to be the misfortune of the Union party on this coast that some of its would be leaders are so very cautious that they are afraid to speak the whole truth We confess that we cannot understand or approve such a policy It is always safe to do right, if one vote is gained by concealing the truth, ten are lost through want of confidence in those who lack courage or principle to assume a just responsibility In Oregon, we hope there will be none of this bewildering and deceptive course. We can afford to take high and manly ground. We ought to speak out boldly for the Government, for the Administration and for freedom, and we hope that the people in sending delegates to the convention, will take care that their representatives are true, fearless and thorough in their devotion to liberty and the Union.

MORE BITTER THAN THEIR MASTERS —Some of the Northern Rebels who justify treason and abuse the Government and its officers might learn a lesson from their Southern allies We have papers in this State which are full of sneers at Secretary Chase and his financial skill But the Richmond Examiner, with much fairness and regard for truth, says it regards "the slow depreciation of the Federal currency as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this extraordinary war;" and adds, "But it is not to be denied that the Federal Secretary of the Treasury has conducted the finances of his Government with consummate ability " We commend these expressions to the attention of those who show their zeal in behalf of the rebellion, by slandering officers of the Government, to whom even the Richmond papers give the credit of wisdom and ability

THE ANNUAL ELECTION of officers for the California Stage Company was held at Marysville, on the 15th The following gentlemen were elected: James Haworth, President, F. S. Stevens, Vice President, A G. Richardson, General Superintendent, H A Charles, Secretary James Haworth, F S Stevens, A. G. Richardson, W Montgomery, John Andrews, Directors

DEMAGOGUES AT WORK —The Appeal expresses its fear that an attempt is to be made in California to use the Union party as a machine for the benefit of "a clique of politicians; ALL OF CERTAIN POLITICAL ANTECEDENTS," and says that—

"Whatever be the specific object of this little machine it is now just in its embryo It is impossible to tell but we know that it forebodes no good to the strength or unanimity of the party. This little wheel is intended to revolve within the large wheel of the party It is the slate on which all the nominees for preferment are to be written, whether for bummers of the next Congressional delegation or for the successor of Senator McDougal —and so along down the scale. The little wheel is to make nominees and State Conventions are only to go through the motions of endorsing the acts of the central power

"We desire that the Union party in this State shall live not until the war is over, but long after the war ceases and the Union shall have been restored But the sowing of the seeds of disruption and defeat by the inauguration of that system of Regency peculiar to the old Democratic organization raises doubts as to its longevity No party, even if it be the Union can maintain its ascendancy in this State after it puts on corruption It is therefore imperative upon the members of the present Legislature to see that no encouragement be given to the creation of any faction or clique within the party It is the will of the Union voters of this State that these self appointed guardians of the Union party attend to their legitimate duties and let Senator making alone It is well for the party if this clique be nipped in the bud The men engaged in it are well known, and it is pretty well understood what their aims are. The clique extends from the [illegible] Sacramento to the halls at Washington"

We have quoted these remarks because we believe them to be truthful and quite as pertinent in Oregon as where they were written There is reason to think that a slate similar to that above described, is fixed up in part for the Union party here, and that the State Convention is expected "only to go through the motions of endorsing the acts of the central power" We hope the prevailing impression upon the subject is erroneous and that no such a scheme has been found or will be put in operation, for its effect will be, beyond a doubt, the disruption and defeat of the Union party The people are weary of that sort of political strategy, and think, as we have reason to believe, that men who cannot be trusted on their own merits and ability do not deserve votes, because a nomination has been secured by a bargain, or through the manipulations of a clique Open and fair dealing is better for all who are interested, and is the only sure way to win success

DEMOCRATIC HUMBUG —Another obscure meeting of rebel sympathizers up the valley has advertised its weakness and its wickedness by publishing a resolution, "that the Democratic party is the only power which can restore the country" What consummate impudence! "The Democratic" was the party whose leaders and chief men plotted to ruin the nation, and are now actually laboring to accomplish their infernal purpose It was the party in the ascendancy in every rebel State when it seceded, it was the party which in the North furnished the sympathizers with the rebellion, and the cowardly traitors, who, while protected by the Government are doing their utmost to destroy the institutions of freedom, these are the men who pretend that their base and degenerate party is the only power which can restore the Union Shame on them forever and forever! If there is any distinction between them and the Southern rebels who fight boldly for their cause, no one can doubt that the last, bad as they are, are infinitely more honorable than their contemptible Northern allies. They show their colors, and stand by them with their lives and fortunes, but Northern Democrats try to cover up their disloyalty and treason under fraudulent professions that they are the only party whose policy can restore the Union The base lie ought to overwhelm them with eternal infamy

HARDEST TO PLEASE —From present appearances, it looks as if it would be much more difficult to reconcile Northern Democrats to the suppression of the rebellion and the destruction of slavery, which is sure to follow, than it will be to bring the rebels themselves to good temper and quiet submission By degrees, leading men in the South are giving up their opposition to the Government, and accepting the terms allowed to them, but as fast as the prospect of national success brightens, treasonable Democrats among us seem to grow more desperate, malignant, gloomy and ferocious. They want the war stopped and slavery restored more than the South, they say every missing slave must be paid for, or sought out and returned to his master, they claim for the rebellion a support and sympathy which its leaders and contrivers never pretend to ask. Such demagogues and haters of the Government and of freedom are far worse enemies than the foe in the open field, they deserve a traitor's punishment and shame, quite as much as any Confederate chief or subject.

CONVERTED —Richard S Fay, says the Boston Transcript who is one of the most determined Hunkers in Massachusetts on leaving his home for Europe, wrote as follows:

The slavery question out of which grew this rebellion, is fast being settled by events As I have frequently said before I repeat now as far as the slave is concerned, I would not raise my hand to free them all to morrow, if it interfered with the constitutional rights of any individual in the Union but if on the other hand, slavery becomes incompatible with our National existence, I am quite willing to see the slave go free as one of the consequences and as a punishment for the sins of his master I am glad to see the free African fighting in this cause for it seems to me but the logical consequence of a war brought on by the slaveholder The first gun fired upon Fort Sumter I have ever regarded as a knell of slavery, whatever the other consequences might be Even if disunion triumphs the slave question is settled.

Napoleon's Policy

The Cincinnati Gazette has the following interesting letter from its London correspondent

Napoleon III—illegitimate son of Hortense by the Dutch Admiral Verhuel according to veracious history [illegible] Bonaparte her own stepfather according to [illegible] ready to borrow glory even of a mother's shame—has never lost sight of the "Napoleonic ideas" as they are called If you will turn to the little volume entitled Napoleonic Ideas published in 1842 you will find that the scheme of planting a Latin empire in Mexico is therein expressed and also a scheme of a league of crowns, something like that proposed in the Emperor's late proposition for a Congress. The Emperor has written It is not alone the ashes of Napoleon but his ideas that we should bring back to France

If Punch had not lost its soul with Douglas Jerrold, or if Charivari dared say what it thought, we might have had this week a cartoon something like this Louis Napoleon in the costume of a Quaker counseling peace with one foot on the neck of Mexico the other on that of Cochin China one hand grasping the throat of Rome and the other that of Savoy He talking of peace—he inaugurating a European millenium,—who to-day is known among the nations struggling with their oppressors only as the jailer of Europe " No statesman in Europe believes that he means anything more by this Congress than to get time with his own people on the Polish question He advances a proposition which he knows will not be adopted and which he does not wish should be but it requires a winter for negotiations during which Russia may lay [illegible] Poland, which shakes its gory locks forever at France To help Poland he must withdraw from Mexico and China and no one believes that he will give up a policy of oppression in one of his [illegible] But France is not willing to abandon Poland and to abandon that unhappy country is dangerous to his cause There is no doubt that Napoleon is a liar that he showed when he thrice assured Mr Dayton that no change in the government of Mexico was contemplated when, as it is now known the Austrian Archduke was notified that the crown was to be offered him That he is a coward there is as little reason to doubt When he was making his coup d'etat in France history says his heart failed him and that he wished to recede from his claim to the crown when one of the imperialists in council leapt to his feet and placed a pistol at his head telling him that if he withdrew one step he would be shot dead Thus he was forced to go on with the nefarious plot which succeeded only because of the utter corruption of the French people And now, when his Legislature opened he found a pistol at his head again—one held in the grasp of his own nation "You abandon the cause of Poland at your peril they said What to do then? He could not tell the truth "I am so involved in Mexico that I am not strong enough to fight Russia!" So he sneaks out of it by talking of a Congress. The trick was very clear It imposed on many but England is too old a bird to be caught by such chaff Hence in her practical way, she informs the Emperor that England is not in the habit of going into Congresses of whose objects and authorities she is entirely ignorant and consequently requests to know just what European questions are to be proposed for discussion or adjustment in the proposed Congress of Crowns Now if I mistake not, France will find her reply to this move on the board a very difficult one. Next to the Polish question, the most serious ones in Europe are those which implicate Napoleon A large majority of European Sovereigns would vote his armed presence in Rome Savoy Nice and Cochin China flagrant usurpation His advance upon Mexico involved a betrayal of Spain and England and went upon a theory which Europe could never sanction without danger, though Europe cares little who rules in Mexico Now, all know that Napoleon would not submit one of these questions to any Congress whatsoever How, then is he to reply to England's shrewd inquiry? Will he enumerate all the questions fatal to his neighbors and omit all mention of his own? Hardly He will in very humble wise declare, as meekly as Uriah Heep, that he is too humble to dare propose any programme for such an exalted assemblage as he invites to Paris, and will be very complacent when he finds what he, perhaps anticipated—that there are too many crowned rogues in Europe for them to allow a general searching of all royal pockets His proposition is likely to fail by the non consent of England, Austria and Prussia, and Napoleon will always be able to lay the burthen of whatever may occur upon their shoulders.

At a dinner company the other evening at which I was present, a gentleman present, an admirer of Napoleon, told the following story concerning him When in his days of poverty this Emperor was in London he staid sometime at the lodging house of a poor widow When he departed he told this lady that he had no money at all with which to pay his board there, that he had only a five franc piece ($1,00) He would give her that but one day he expected to be powerful and rich and if when that time came, she would bring or send him that five-franc piece he would remember his debt and repay it When some years after this woman heard that poor lodger had become the President of the French Assembly she went to Versailles, and was refused admission several times At last she sat down near the palace gate Presently she saw a magnificent coach driving up to the gate She rushed into the middle of the road and stood with arms extended, so that the driver couldn't pass her.

Forced to stop, the Emperor looked out of the window and saw the woman, spoke to her, and, finding who she was, took her to the palace and accommodated her there until she was ready to return to England with a handsome compensation.

A distinguished gentleman present, sometime member of Parliament, and one who had spent much time in America, put in with the following "I don't know that it is much to his credit It would not have been a pretty story to have flying in the papers through the world but the French President, (then hoping to be Emperor,) had cheated an honest land-lady of London of just dues nor even that he had sent her home with the bare amount of her claim Now let me tell you what I learned in America from a party who gave me evidence of the truth of his story Napoleon among other adventurers, got into a brawl in a disreputable house in New York the parties were all put on trial and it was only by the skill of a certain lawyer, that Louis Napoleon got off from the charge against him He then told the lawyer that he was unable at that time to pay him any fee, but hoped to be able to do so in the future After some years, when Louis Napoleon became Emperor, the lawyer sent him a bill for the services he had rendered. He received no reply Again he sent, but with no success After having sent three times thus, he drew up an account of the brawl and Napoleon's part in it, &c, and sent it to Paris as the document which he would print in the New York papers unless his fee was paid After the arrival of the next return mail from Europe the lawyer received a request from the French Minister at Washington that a certain claim against the Emperor of France should be forwarded to him for settlement "

These stories are characteristic enough There is no man who can do a generous thing with more eclat when he is forced to do it than Napoleon. The only thing he ever did for freedom was to help Cavour against Austria and this he did simply as he paid the lawyer his fee—he couldn't help it. He has refused the prayer of Poland again and again, and yet he may have to help that country as the alternative of losing his crown Then we shall never hear the end of Napoleon's gallantry for freedom But even when he crushes liberty, he does it in that polite manner which drew forth a eulogy from Senator Sumner Mr Kinglake hit the nail on the head when he said that if Napoleon were given a plan and time to deliberate he could imitate very nearly the style of a man of honor.

Meanwhile it will be safe for us in America to go upon the theory that this "crowned pickpocket," as Carlyle calls him is the most malignant foe of freedom in the world at present, that he is envious of America that he strikes without a warning rattle and that he will bear as much watching as we can spare from Jeff Davis to give him Indeed the two are twins in temperament and their movements on our continent are of twin baseness and intent. An alliance between them would be as natural as between a hook and eye

There can be no doubt that our danger so far as England is concerned is past The Confederate sympathizers here are shrieking bitterly They dare call no public meeting to advance their projects whilst scarcely an evening paper appears without some large outpouring of the masses in favor of America Another ship for the Confederacy was discovered in process of preparation at Glasgow last week our friends there advised the Government of the fact and Lord Russell replied that the Government already had its eye on the ship

There is no doubt that the apathetic attitude of England towards Poland gives deep satisfaction to many leading men and a large number of people The Poles can scarcely survive this winter if no human power comes to their aid What many think is very forcibly shown in the subjoined extract of a letter from John Ruskin This distinguished author was recently invited to give a lecture before the School of Art connected with the Liverpool Mechanics Institute. In his reply he declines on account of [illegible] the condition of Poland and [illegible] ideas of [illegible] the political position taken [illegible] England in her foreign relations—especially in the affairs of Italy and Poland His letter concludes thus, "I like war as little as most people—but I think I would not spend twenty millions a year in making machines for it neither my hands and pocket money in paying [illegible] I would have the country go to war in a good quarrel, and, which is perhaps eccentric, in rather another quarrel than in her own We say of ourselves complacently, that we will not go to war for an idea but the phrase interpreted means only that we will go to war for a bale of goods but not for justice or for mercy and I would ask you to favor me so far as to read this letter to the students at your meeting and say to them that I heartily wish them well but for the present I am too sad to be of any service to them that our wars in China and Japan are not likely to furnish good subjects for historical pictures that ideas happen unfortunately in art to be the principal things and that a country which will not fight for its ideas is not likely to have anything worth painting

GENERAL WRIGHT —The Call's Sacramento correspondent writes

Loyal people hereabouts are gratified at the telegraphic announcement that the Department of the Pacific is to have a new commander There is no doubt of General Wright's personal loyalty to the Government and country but there is a strong impression apparently well founded that he is controlled altogether too much by Secesh influences So long as such an impression exists it is folly to keep him in command.

The California Legislature has undertaken to investigate the complaints against Gen Wright —a resolution having passed for the appointment of a Committee for that purpose Mr Winchester who introduced it said

It was a matter of public notoriety that certain official emoluments had recently been granted to certain disloyal persons in this State, that certain persons had received official station who were known to be open enemies of this Government. It was an ungracious task to refer to these matters but he was impelled to it by a sense of duty to his constituency and to the loyal people of the State He had no passion nor prejudice in the matter having no friends who had been defeated or who were applicants for position and had no other motive in offering the resolution than a sense of duty What were the facts? There was a paper published in this State called the Marysville Express which paper had published a treasonable speech of C L Vallandigham with laudatory headings and comments and which had on all occasions evinced unmistakably its treasonable tendencies and yet this organ of treason, in the midst of the present gigantic rebellion, had been selected as the medium for the publication of the official orders and acts of officers of this Government. It was said that this was simply a mistake an inadvertence perhaps of some poor soldier or clerk who in the hurry of the moment had misdirected the document on account of the similarity between the names 'Appeal' and Express, He could accept that explanation if it had happened that the publication appeared in but one treasonable paper but he found that a paper in Oregon known to be one of the most violent secession papers on this coast, edited by the "Arkansas Traveler, had also been favored with this official advertising, although the Sentinel, a good Union paper is published at the same place. Why is this made there by authority? Echo answered Why? He held that any authority which would allow the public money of the nation to go for the support of such papers as these was unworthy of the confidence of the loyal people of this country For one he was not willing to allow such an act to pass unnoticed Again persons had been appointed to subordinate offices in this State who were open avowed Secessionists without any reservation whatever and such appointments had been made without the consent or concurrence of legislative delegations It was true the official station they received was not of great importance, yet these men went forth clothed with official sanction Men elevated to offices of responsibility and trust by the Union men of the State had appointed persons under them who were not only disloyal, but whose vices aside from that should exclude them even from the social circle. It was for these reason that he introduced this resolution in order that the sentiment of the people of this State might be expressed upon this matter. It was easy for these men to say they had been imposed upon, but men holding high offices of trust here or elsewhere had no right to be imposed upon He knew that he should be charged with faction, and proscription of men for opinion's sake, yet he should not swerve from his duty for any personal consideration He had been a political Pariah and outcast for years on account of the entertainment of unpopular political sentiments Yet he had relied upon the force of reason and argument, and waited for those sentiments to gain a foothold in the public mind as they had done But the case was different then from what it was now, when they were in the midst of a gigantic civil war, which had drenched this land in blood Sentiments which might then be uttered with impunity were now rank treason It was said that he should not stir up strife and create dissension He did not desire to do so, he was not blood thirsty and did not want civil war But he was determined, though far removed from the horrors of civil war, to discharge as fully as possible his duty to his country in this hour of his country's peril." He owed that duty not only to his constituents but to those noble men far down in the land of rebellion who had suffered every species of indignity and persecution for their unyielding loyalty to the stars and stripes, "the banner of beauty and glory " He owed it to them to see that men who sympathize with their persecutors were not petted and rewarded here, he owed it to the brave soldiers who were bleeding on the battle field to-day, and to the widows and orphans of those who had laid down their lives for their country, which these men would gladly aid to destroy. The man who took arms in his hands and stood in the ranks of treason, they knew where to find but the man who staid here, protected by the law of the country, and sought to prevent enlistments and to bring into disrepute the currency of the country, was ten times more the traitor He believed it to be the duty of this Legislature to enter its protest against any more mistakes or impositions of this character In conclusion he said his attention had been called to something in the newspapers in regard to the gentleman who had been appointed Secretary of the Supreme Court It had been supposed that this resolution was aimed at him, but he would state that men whom he had known long and well in this city had testified to that gentleman's undoubted loyalty and that he had been efficient and untiring in his efforts to encourage those who are seeking to put down rebellion

GOT THE START OF HIS MASTER.—An army correspondent in Tennessee, referring to the desire of many slaveholders, that their chattles should enlist so that the master may get the bounty, tells this story

A well to do farmer of this vicinity whose loyalty hangs on a pivot came into town hunting his man Hiram " to put him in the service. Now it so happened that the aforesaid Hiram being a little wiser than some of the other sons of Canaan took it into his head to hoe his own row, and having heard that the Yankees were very clever folks came over to Chattanooga and hired himself to an officer But the farmer after some difficulty, found his man, and the following dialogue took place.

Farmer— Well Hiram I'm glad to see you.

Hiram— Glad to see you too massa

Farmer— Hiram you love your country, don't you?

Hiram— Yes massa, and don't you?

Farmer— Hiram I want you to enlist.

Hiram— Done massa I'll list if you will

Farmer— Well but ahem! you know I have done well by you Hiram?

Hiram— Yes, massa, and I've done well by you to Farmer—"But Hiram it will bring me three hundred dollars if you enlist

Hiram— Dat so? Well I b'lieve I could use dat pretty much myself massa

Farmer— Well Hiram you will go home with me any how

Hiram — Ha ha Can't see it massa Dese Yanks do very well an I guess I'll stay.

That of course was an end of the matter The farmer knew better than to drive his loyalty just for the chance of getting back his slave, who in fact wasn't worth five cents except to use for bounty

Why is our grand army like a game of checkers? Because it is a game of white and black drafts.

THE CRISIS OF THE MINING SPECULATING MANIA —There can be no doubt, says the San Francisco Call from a glance at the notices of sale advertised in the papers, that the crisis long desired [illegible] in mining stock is upon us. Assessments are [illegible] us—they are crushing everybody, and many are allowing their stock to go to sale rather than attempt to keep pace with the rapid accumulation of assessments. This is the foreseen result of the senseless mania which for a year past has pervaded all classes of people to become possessed of extensive interests in a large number of mines, instead of confining themselves to a moderate interest in one or two mines, the prospect of which has been approved to their judgment by a careful examination or reliable information. How many men in this city, with an income which would not justify a speculative expenditure of over fifteen or twenty dollars per month, have denied themselves and their families of comforts, and even necessaries, in order to pay assessments on stock in different mines, amounting to nearly their whole revenue?

THE TELEGRAPH LINE COMPLETED TO JACKSONVILLE —The long expected telegraph connection between this place and Yreka has at length been made On Thursday last the wagon arrived in town [illegible] out the wire, which was rapidly stretched on the staunch poles by workmen under the management of Superintendent Whittlesey, and by evening the wire was attached to the battery in the office, located in the reception room of the U S Hotel On yesterday morning we received the first dispatch sent over the wires to this place, which we publish in this paper.—Jacksonville Sentinel, Jan. 23d

THE STEAMSHIP OREGON will be due to-morrow, as she left on the 27th for this city, direct. She will probably be full of passengers, among whom will be several of our own citizens, who have been sojourning in San Francisco for some weeks; it is also reported that among them there will be a bridal party, who will be warmly welcomed by a large circle of well-wishing friends. A crowd of miners are also expected, who will be the advance wave of the rushing tide that is to pour upon us this season. Let them come on—we can stand it, and feel better all the time, while we hope that every new comer will be satisfied to become a fixture.

WOULDN'T TAKE THE BET.—A question came up yesterday, at a place on Front street where they sometimes sell horse-flesh at auction, upon the age of a horse—whose merit the owner was quite free in extolling. After a somewhat critical examination of the animal's teeth, the dealer offered to make a bet that the horse was fifteen years old. The owner demurred, but finally wanted to know how they would decide the matter, in case the bet was made. "Oh," said the dealer, swelling up, "I'm willing to leave it to any jury of old horses!" whereupon the owner peremptorily declined taking the bet, and rode off in the direction of home.

CHARLES BARRY, Esq., General Agent of the California and Columbia River Railroad, is in our city, for the purpose of collecting funds for publishing the maps and report of the survey made by Mr. S. G. Elliott, Chief Engineer. We hope that those who feel an interest in the success of the project will assist in contributing the comparatively small [illegible] for bringing it before the public. Mr. Barry is at the Western Hotel, and will be glad to give any information concerning the work, to our citizens.

WHAT A CHANGE!—Here we are again in the midst of another snow storm. Since noon yesterday the earth has been gradually assuming a spotless mantle of white, reviving the visions of fast drives, warm furs, and crystal ice, which were so recently sported on a winter's day in Portland. How long this prospect will last we are unable to tell; having missed the mark every time in our calculations on the weather, we might fail again, so we take it as it comes, and suppose of course everybody will do the same.

LIKELY TO CLOSE.—Mr. West, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Messenger from the Dalles, informs us that when the Idaho left yesterday morning the weather was quite cold, with strong northern winds, and when at the Cascades considerable snow was falling. No treasure was brought down, of any consequence. The Nez Perce Chief left Celilo Thursday morning for Wallula, but unless the weather moderated it was likely there would be another freeze up.

THE ENROLLMENT.—Mr. Johnson informs us that the enrollment is nearly finished, in the City, and that by next week he will be able to make his returns to the Provost Marshal. Mr. Johnson has been very successful in the work, and has met with many amusing and laughable incidents, during the time he has been engaged as enrolling officer.

COLD WEATHER.—Capt. Aukeny has shown us a meteorological table, kept at Oro Fino from the 7th to the 10th inst., from which it appears that the thermometer ranged from [illegible] below zero to 5° below. It touched the lowest point at 8 o'clock in the morning of the 5th. Rather severe weather, that, for web-feet.

BUSY DAY WITH THE SHERIFF.—Yesterday was the last day Sheriff Ladd had to serve papers for the next term of the Circuit Court, which is to meet on Monday, the 8th of February. There is considerable litigation going on, if we are permitted to judge from the last three days' work of the Sheriff.

THE HUNT did a light business yesterday, in the way of passengers and freight, and made her round in "double quick." She won't have such easy times long, however, if reports from California are true. We hear a grand rush is expected from there the coming season, on the way to our upper country.

AN ACCIDENT occurred to the mule-power ferry boat, foot of Stark street, yesterday afternoon, which reminded us that they don't "keep up their lick" every quarter of an hour, as reported. The Pony has been laid up for repairs.

UNION COUNTY COMMITTEE.—The following gentlemen constitute this committee, by appointment of the County Convention, held in April, 1862: H. Failing, C. H. Lewis, A. J. Dufur, S. J. McCormick, C. S. Silver.

THE SENATOR arrived at five o'clock P. M., yesterday, with twenty passengers and 107 tons freight from Oregon City. She took up twenty-three passengers and 25 tons freight, in the morning.

DECLINES.—Rev. C. S. Kingsley, who is now in Bannock City, declines to take the position of Editor of the Advocate, in this city, to which he was elected at the last Methodist Conference.

THE EXCURSION.—It is understood that the Fair Play will leave her wharf at the foot of Alder street, at 8 o'clock, on the excursion to Oregon City.

THE INFANT PRODIGY has arrived in Portland, and is to appear at the Theatre this evening—one of the performers in "Kelly's Varieties."

FOR LEWISTON.—The fast sailing schooner, Rapid will leave Celilo for Lewiston, on the 8th of February. Hefron & Pitts, are her agents, at the Dalles.

OREGON CITY WOOLEN FACTORY.—We are glad to learn that arrangements have at length been made between Mr. Harvey, and the representatives of the proposed Company, for the purchase of a suitable site for a Woolen Factory in Oregon City, with water power sufficient to run ten sets of machinery. The Company will commence operations at once, and it is hoped that before the year is ended the music of the spindle and the loom will greet the ears of the patient, long suffering, and ever hopeful residents of the pioneer city of our State. We have no doubt that when manufacturing is once begun there, the existing facilities will make the Willamette Falls the Lowell of the Pacific. We trust our neighbors will hasten their prosperity, for Portland is deeply interested in it, and will never be jealous of any success that their exertions may secure.

MODEL SENTINEL.—An anecdote is related of one of the citizen soldiers in the expedition of the McPherson Blues, against the insurgents of 1774, which is worth being recorded, as it may be of some service to some of the wealthier soldiers in our ranks. The person referred to was a German by birth, by the name of Koch, and well known in his day as a large underwriter. He died some twenty years ago in Paris, whither he had gone for the benefit of the climate, leaving a fortune of one million dollars. Koch, then a young man, was a private in the MacPherson Blues. It fell to his lot one night to be stationed sentinel over a baggage wagon. The weather was cold, raw and wet. This set the sentinel musing. After remaining at his post half an hour, he was heard calling lustily: "Corporal of der guartz! Corporal of der guartz!" The corporal came and inquired what was wanting. Koch wished to be relieved a few moments, having something to say to MacPherson. He was gratified, and in a few moments stood in the presence of the General. "Well, Mr. Koch, what is your pleasure?" asked MacPherson. "Why, General, I wish to know what may be der value of that wagon over which I am placed as sentinel?" "How should I know, Koch?" "Well, something approximative—not to be particular." "A thousand dollars." "Well, Gen. MacPherson, I will write a check for der money, and don I will go to bets." (sed.)

AN ELECTION INCIDENT.—A correspondent of the Troy Times relates an incident that happened at the polls in the second District of Nassau. A soldier who had come home from the army to see his aged parents and cast his vote, wended his way, early Thursday morning, with his father, to the polls. They were met by a brother of the old gentleman, who gave him a Democratic ticket and said, "You and I have always been Democrats—vote that ticket." The son took from his pocket a full set of Union ballots, and read the names of all the candidates to his father—at the same time saying: "Father, I don't wish to dictate. Vote as you please. But if you do not wish my throat cut by a sword in the hands of a rebel, vote the Union ticket. If you do, then vote the Democratic ticket." He turned away from his father—leaving him to choose for himself, while the brother remarked that the only true Union ticket was the Democratic ticket. The old gentleman stood pondering for a few moments, with the tears coursing down his furrowed cheeks, and then started for the polls, where he cast a clean Union ticket. This correspondent says he saw a tear in the eyes of many bystanders.—Utica Herald.

THE STORMING OF MISSIONARY RIDGE.—The storming of the ridge in the great battle before Chattanooga, is thus described by an officer in a report to the war department:

> The storming of the ridge by our troops was one of the greatest miracles in military history. No man, who climbs the ascent by any of the roads that wind along its front, can believe that 18,000 men were moved upon its broken and crumbling face, unless it was his fortune to witness the deed. It seems as awful as a visible interposition of God. Neither Gen. Grant nor Gen. Thomas intended it. Their orders were to carry the rifle pits, along the base of the ridge, and cut off their occupants, but when this was accomplished the unaccountable spirit of the troops bore them boldly up the impracticable steeps, over the bristling rifle-pits on the crest, and the thirty cannon enfilading every gully. The orders to storm appear to have been given simultaneously by Generals Sheridan and Wood, because the men were not to be held back, hopeless as the attempt appeared to military prudence. Besides, the Generals caught the inspiration of the men, and were ready themselves to undertake impossibilities.

FRAIL CHANCE.—A pious old lady, on hearing that the salvation of the country depended on the success of the Democratic party, exclaimed:

"O, Lord, on what a slender thread,
Hang everlasting things!"

It is poor policy to sell a bad article for a big price. Most people make the mistake of getting the most they can out of every customer that enters their store, and as a matter of course never see his face again. Heuston, Hastings & Co., the celebrated Clothiers, of Montgomery street, San Francisco, adopt a different plan. They want their customers to come again, and to this end sell none but good goods, well made up, and their prices are very reasonable.

First Hebrew Benevolent Association.—An adjourned meeting will be held at the City Council Rooms on Sunday, the 31st inst, at 2½ P. M. Members will please attend. MORITZ WALTER, Sec'y.

Ode to Winter.

Go—get thee gone, Old Winter! I make bold
(While others praise thee) to declare the truth;
Thou art a tyrant without Christian ruth,
Capricious, crusty, and "confounded cold!"

Thou art a blustering, blistering, bullying wight;
A burglar, entering every cottage door,
Borne by the rich and hated by the poor—
A very rascal in a cloak of white!

Thou fillest the farmer with foreboding fears;
Thou bitest sharply at the schoolboy's toes;
Thou reddenest e'en the daintiest lady's nose,
And pinchest rudely everybody's ears!

Thou makest rime without the slightest reason:
Unless it be to raise the price of coal;
And, bluster as thou wilt, upon my soul,
Thou art a most unseasonable season. —Sire.

Growler's Income Tax.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

My neighbor Growler, an excitable man, by the way, was particularly excited over his "Income Tax," or, as he called it, his "War Tax." He had never liked the war—thought it unnecessary and wicked; the work of politicians. This fighting of brother against brother was a terrible thing in his eyes. If you asked him who began the war?—who struck at the nation's life?—if self-defence were not a duty?—he would reply with vague generalities, made up of partisan tricky sentences, which he had learned without comprehending their significance.

"There it is! Just so much robbery! Stand and deliver, is the word. Pistols and bayonets! Your money or your life!"

I took the piece of paper from his hand and read:

"PHILADELPHIA, September, 1863.
"RICHARD GROWLER, Esq.,
"To JOHN M. RILEY,
"Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fourth District Pennsylvania. Office 427 Chestnut Street.
"For Tax on Income, for the year 1862, as per return made to the Assessor of the District............$43 21
"Received payment.
"JOHN M. RILEY, COLLECTOR."

"You're all right," I said, smiling.

"I'd like to know what you mean by all right!" Growler was just a little offended at my way of treating this very serious matter—serious in his eyes, I mean. "I've been robbed of forty-three dollars and twenty-one cents," he continued. "Do you say that is all right? A minion of the Government has put his hand into my pocket and taken out just so much of my property. Is that all right?"

"The same thing may be set forth in very different language," I replied. "Let me state the case."

"Very well, state it!" said Growler dumping himself into a chair, and looking as ill-humored as possible.

"Instead of being robbed," said I, "you have been protected in your property and person, and guaranteed all the high privileges of citizenship, for the paltry sum of forty-three dollars and twenty-one cents as your share of the cost of protection."

"Oh, that's only your way of putting the case," retorted Growler, dropping a little from his tone of indignation.

"Let me be more particular in my way of putting the case. Your income is from the rent of property?"

"Yes."

"What would it have cost you to defend that property from the army of General Lee recently driven from our State by national soldiers?"

"Cost me!" Growler looked at me in a kind of maze, as though he thought me half in jest.

"Exactly! What would it have cost you? Lee, if unopposed, would certainly have reached this city, and held it; and if your property had been of use to him or any of his officers or soldiers, it would have been appropriated without as much as saying—'By your leave, sir?' Would forty-three dollars and twenty-one cents have covered the damages? Perhaps not. Possibly, you might have lost from one-half to three-fourths of all that you are worth."

Growler was a trifle bewildered at this way of putting the case. He looked puzzled.

"You have a store on South Wharves?" said I.

"Yes."

"What has kept the Alabama or the Florida from running up the Delaware and burning the whole city front? Do you have forts and ships of war for the protection of your property? If not, who provides them? They are provided and you are safe. What is your share of the expense for a whole year? Just forty-three dollars and twenty-one cents. It sounds like a jest!"

Growler did not answer; so I kept on.

"But for our immense armies in the field, and navy on the water, this rebellion would have succeeded. What then? Have you ever pondered the future of this country in such an event? Have you thought of your own position? of the loss or gain to yourself? How long do you think we could be at peace with England or France, if the nation were dismembered, and a hostile Confederation established on our Southern border? Would our war taxes be less than now? Would life and property be more secure? Have you not an interest in our army and navy, as well as I and every other member of the Union? Does not your safety as well as mine lie in their existence? Are they not, at this very time, the conservators of everything we hold dear as men and citizens? Who equips and pays this army? Who builds and furnishes these ships? Where does the enormous sums of money required come from? It is the nation's work—the people aggregated into power and munificence, and so irresistible in might—unconquerable. Have you no heart swellings of pride in this magnificent exhibition of will and strength? No part in the nation's glory? No eager helping hand to stretch forth?"

Growler was silent still.

"There was no power in you or me to check the wave of destruction that was launched by fratricidal hands against us. If unresisted, by the nation, as an aggregate power, it would have swept in desolation over the whole land. Traitors in our midst, and traitors moving in arms against us, would have united to destroy our beautiful fabric of civil liberty. The Government, which dealt with all good citizens so kindly and gently, that not one in a thousand felt its touch beyond the weight of a feather, would have been subverted; and who can tell under what iron rule we might have fallen for a time, or how many years of bloody strife would have elapsed before that civil liberty which insures the greatest good to the greatest number would have been established? But the wave of destruction was met—nay hurled back upon the enemies who sought our ruin. We yet dwell in safety. Your property is secure. You still gather your annual income, protected in all your rights and privileges by the national arm. And what does the nation assess to you as your share in the cost of this security? Half your property? No—not a farthing of that property! Only a small percentage of your income from that property! Just forty-three dollars and twenty-one cents! Pardon me for saying it, friend Growler, but I am more than half ashamed of you."

"And seeing the way you put the case, I am more than half ashamed of myself," he answered frankly. "Why taking your view, this is about the cheapest investment I ever made."

"You certainly get more for your money than in any other line of expenditure. Yesterday I had a letter from an old friend living in the neighborhood of Carlisle. The rebels took from him six fine horses, worth two hundred dollars a piece, six cows and oxen; and over two hundred bushels of grain. And not content with plundering him, they burnt down a barn, which had cost him nearly two thousand dollars. But for the army raised and equipped by the nation, in support of which you and I are taxed so lightly, we might have suffered as severely. How much do you think it costs in money for the protection we have enjoyed in this particular instance?"

"A million of dollars, perhaps!"

"Nearer ten millions of dollars. From the time our army left the Rappahannock until the battle of Gettysburg, its cost to the government could scarcely have been less than the sum I have mentioned. Of this sum your proportion cannot be over three or four dollars; and for that trifle your property, may be your life, was held secure."

"No more of that, if you please," said Growler, showing some annoyance. "You are running the thing into the ground. I own up square. I was quarreling with my best friend. I was striking at the hand that gave me protection. If my war tax next year should be a hundred dollars instead of forty-three, I will pay it without a murmur."

"Don't say without a murmur, friend Growler."

"What then?"

"Say gladly, as a means of safety."

"Put it as you will," he answered, folding up Collector Riley's receipt, which he still held in his hand, and bowing himself out.

Not many days afterwards, I happened to hear some one grumbling in my neighbor's presence about his income tax. Growler waited to hear him through. My lesson was improved in his hands. In significant phrase he "pitched into" the offender, and read him a lecture so much stronger than mine, that I felt myself thrown quite in the shade.

"You have been assessed fifty eight dollars," he said, in his excited way—"fifty-eight dollars! One would think from the noise you make about it, that you had been robbed of half you were worth. Fifty-eight dollars for security at home, and protection abroad! Fifty-eight dollars as your share of the cost of defense against an enemy that, if unopposed will desolate our homes and destroy our government! Already it has cost the nation for your safety and mine over a thousand millions of dollars; and you are angry because asked for your little part of the expense. Sir, you are not worthy the name of an American citizen?"

"That's sharp talk, and I won't bear it," said the other.

"It's true talk, and you'll have to bear it!" was retorted. "Fretting over the mean little sum of fifty-eight dollars! Why sir, I know a man who has given his right arm to this cause, and another who has given his right leg. Do they grumble? No sir! I never heard a word of complaint from their lips. Thousands and tens of thousands have given their lives, that you and I might dwell in safety. I know mothers who have given their sons, and wives who have given their husbands—sons and husbands who will never more return! They are with the dead, sir. you are dishonoring in the eyes of all men. A grumbler over the paltry war tax—for shame!"

I turned off, saying in my thought:

So much good done! My reclaimed sinner has become a preacher of righteousness.—N. Y. Ledger.

ABOUT BEES.—A. J. Biglow, a large importer of Italian bees, and who has an apiary on the Sacramento river, has the following on the subject:

There have been but very few swarms of bees changed hands during the past year throughout the State. These few have been sold at prices ranging from $15 to $25 per swarm. The rage for speculation in bees has passed, and those that keep them now keep them for the purpose of making honey. The past season has been what the apiarians call a bad season for bees. They gathered very little honey during the fore part of the year, and consequently they threw off only a very few swarms. In some parts of the State they starved. In the months of August, September and October they gathered a good deal of honey, particularly those in the valleys bordering on the rivers, but the stock of good surplus honey in good shape is very limited—the price having ranged from twenty to thirty cents per pound; poorer quality, or in bad shape a little less, and extra nice, some more than thirty cents; ranging from five to ten cents per pound more than last year. The past two years has pretty clearly proved that honey can be produced in this State in large quantities, and a good quality, making the business of propagating bees for the purpose of producing honey, a profitable and reliable business, more certain of success here than in the Eastern States.

WORTH TRYING FOR.—Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle, and you shall have a cow! I never whistled in my life, and I cannot whistle now. Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle, and you shall have a man! I never whistled in my life, but I'll whistle if I can.

SUPPOSED TO BE LOST.—Mr. George Coupe and another man, whose name we have not learned, left Coupville last week in a plunger, bound for Utsalady, and nothing has been since heard of them or the boat. They are supposed to have been drowned.—Seattle Gazette.

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENtion of the public to the fact that on the first of May, 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of Income for the year 1863, and as the year 1863 is just ended, it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor.

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs, etc., from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditure have been made. For instance—a person receives $500 for rents, he can use of that amount all that is necessary to repair such property from which rents were derived; the same rule applies to steam-boats, saw-mills, and other like property, but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds, Mortgages, and from dividends, must be returned as Income, although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings, steamboats, etc.

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from whence derived, amount expended, and for what purpose, then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor, a correct return can be made.

Oregon Statesman and Mountaineer please copy.

HELMBOLD'S
Genuine Preparation.

HIGHLY CONCENTRATE
Compound Fluid
EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL
AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCULOUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms if allowed to go, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THE CONSTITUTION,
once affected by Organic Weakness,

Requires the Aid of Medicine,

to strengthen and invigorate the system, which

invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

FEMALES! FEMALES!! FEMALES!!

OLD OR YOUNG,

Single, Married or contemplating Marriage

IN MANY AFFECTIONS PECULIAR TO FEMALES, the Extract of Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous state of the Uterus, Leucorrhea or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE!

(See symptoms above.)

No Family should be without it.

TAKE NO MORE BALSAM, MERCURY, OR UNPLEASANT MEDICINE FOR UNPLEASANT AND DANGEROUS DISEASES.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,
AND
HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages; At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet; No inconvenience
AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS
Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.
